

Jake

Rescued: 28th March 2011

Rehomed: 09th May 2011

On 28th March we visited the pound which was horrendously overcrowded and the despair in there that day was soul destroying. After walking around a few times we came across this little rough coated terrier and an older collie together in one kennel. These two dogs were not brought in together but due to the overcrowding they had to share. We decided to bring out both dogs and named them Suzie and Jake. Both of them were in desperate need of a bath and after a quick check-up and vaccinations at the vets they went to their foster home.

On May 9th Jake was quickly rehomed by a man named Paul who had lost his beloved Yorkshire Terrier, Sweep a few weeks previous. Paul was completely taken by little Jake and adopted him as soon as he saw him. Since then they have been getting on like a house on fire. They have been for long walks and Jake loves to curl up and have a snooze on Paul's knee. Another successful re-home.
